

Stanbic Cash Trust

Investment Policy and Objective

The Stanbic Cash Trust ("The Fund") is an open-ended unit trust. The principal objective of the Fund is to optimize investors' short-term interest income, maintain liquidity, and preserve capital under normal market conditions.

The Fund will invest in instruments available on the Ghanaian financial market. Under normal market conditions, at least 95% of the Fund's total assets will be invested in short-term money market instruments, while retaining a minimum of 5% in cash and near-cash securities. The Manager may employ short-term tactical deviations from the policy mix of up to 10% of the assets under management.

Risk Rating

Low

Medium

High

The Fund's mandate of investing solely in money market securities with short duration justifies its low risk rating.

Who Can Invest in SCT?

SCT is suitable for investors seeking exposure to a broad range of money market instruments, including treasury bills, commercial papers, and other short-term securities, in addition to fixed deposits. Given the nature of these instruments, the portfolio is valued on a mark-to-market basis, which may result in adverse periodic valuation movements.

Who Can Invest in SCT-AMC?

SCTAMC is better suited to investors seeking greater return stability and predictability. It remains invested exclusively in fixed deposits with banks and non-bank financial institutions and does not hold securities that are subject to market price movements.

Distribution

SCT does not distribute earnings. All earnings are reinvested in the Fund which impacts the net asset value of the Fund. Investors seeking to withdraw earnings will have to sell part of their units to realize their earnings.

Fund Review and Strategy

The Fund ended April with approximately GHS 1.8 billion in assets under management. The portfolio remained largely tilted toward fixed deposits (78%) and treasury bills (16%), with the remaining 6% held in cash and cash equivalents to support liquidity requirements. On a year-to-date basis, SCT delivered a return of 6.1%, significantly outperforming the benchmark return of 2.5%, while SCTAMC recorded a performance of 2.5%. Looking ahead, the Fund will continue to prioritize short-term income generation and liquidity, by maintaining a prudent allocation across money market instruments.

Market Overview

Inflation edged higher, printing at 3.4% compared to 3.2% in the prior month, bringing to an end the 15-month disinflationary trend that began in January 2025. This modest reversal has been driven largely by rising oil prices, spurred by heightened geopolitical tensions stemming from the US-Iran conflict, which has disrupted global oil supply dynamics. The resulting increase in uncertainty around the inflation outlook has prompted a marginal upward adjustment in interest rate expectations, as investors reprice risk amid a relatively opaque macroeconomic environment. A definitive peace agreement between the US and Iran would help temper inflationary concerns; however, inflation dynamics typically lag real-economy developments and are subject to pass-through effects. In this context, investors may consider maintaining adequate allocations to cash and near-cash instruments, allowing flexibility to reposition along the yield curve should geopolitical tensions intensify or macro conditions deteriorate.
